Upswing in uptown Bethel hooliganism worries residents and officials

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A rash of vandalism, harassment, fighting and other disorderly behavior -- nearly all of it involving juveniles or young adults -- has town residents and officials worried.

Most of the incidents have occurred in the upper Main Street area.

In a letter to the Board of Selectmen, local attorney Mike O'Connell (who lives on upper Main Street) said: "The now almost nightly occurrence of vandalism, harassment, behavior, fighting, destruction and other similar unwarranted conduct is escalating rapidly and I am concerned. There also seems to be a growing number of individuals partaking in these activities."

From Attorney of Gould and

"There is no need for the despicable stuff that's going on."

Bethel Police Chief Dale Bellman agreed, telling the selectmen Monday night that, "Complaints in the past month and a half have skyrocketed. ... It's become a real problem real quick."

Jack Brooks, who was involved in a confrontation with one young adult, was one of a dozen or so residents who turned out at Monday's selectmen's meeting (see this week's Police Log for a description of some recent incidents).

"This is new to me, actually I think it's new to the town," Brooks said. "I've got a child about that age. I just can't put up with what I saw."

Bellman praised Brooks' willingness to take action. "With your help

'Deal with the real bad ones, and let the rest of the kids grow up just the way we did.'

JACK BROOKS, arguing against a curfew

we were able to get him summonsed to court," the chief said.

Bob Chadbourne, chairman of the Board of Selectmen agreed, "That's the type of commitment that's needed," he told Brooks.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley said there were other steps individuals could take. "Folks who are being bothered by juveniles in the street need to do a few things," Henley said, including making mental notes for a description of the juvenile, call the police and file a complaint.

Gould Academy associate headmaster Dutch Dresser complained about Gould students and staff being given "a hard time," not by juveniles but by young adults (individuals 18 or over).

"What do we do when people walking the street in daylight to do what people normally do are harassed?" he asked.

"Call the cops," Bellman replied. "(The harassers) can be summonsed and charged with harassment."

Long-term options

The discussion Monday went beyond the handling of individual incidents. The selectmen and residents grappled with how to deal with the overall problem.

A Neighborhood Crime Watch Program, foot patrols or a curfew were the suggestions receiving the most consideration.

The Rev. John Grant, pastor of the Nazarene Church on Church Street, told the board that Crime

Watch programs work.

"I've lived in towns and cities that have them and they've been effective," he said.

Bellman said he had begun work on such a program, but needed to coordinate with Captain Jim Miclon of the Oxford County Sheriff's Office, and with Brian Stowell of the Regional Alliance.

Jeri Brooks suggested a foot patrol, but there is currently no money in the town budget to pay for such a patrol. (Foot patrol requires two officers to be on duty, since one has to be in the cruiser and able to respond quickly to incidents outside of the village.)

Bellman and Officer Darren Tripp said Tuesday that foot patrol has the Local Internet/Web-services firm merges

NetExpress, Inc., the Bethel-based Internet services provider, has merged with a Portland-based firm, New England Internet Services.

NetExpress was founded a year ago by Dutch Dresser, associate headmaster of Gould Academy. Dresser had earlier played an instrumental role in the formation of the Bethel-based firm, NetExpress.

NetExpress has provided Internet services for local schools and businesses, and has been providing Internet services to a number of local businesses. NetExpress has provided Internet services to a number of local businesses, and has been providing Internet services to a number of local businesses.

In addition to offices in Portland and Bethel, the company now has sites in Fryeburg and Bridgton, and in Conway, N.H.

Prior to the merger, NetExpress had three employees in Bethel. Two, Dutch Dresser (Dutch Dresser's son) and Jason Chase, have moved to Portland. Terry Orsberry will continue to work from Dresser's house on Church Street, serving Bethel, Conway, Fryeburg, and Bridgton area clients.

Ben Reavis, the new NEIS president, said, "NEIS and NetExpress merged to address the vast, largely unmet need for the delivery of custom integration solutions connecting disparate systems to the Internet and the World Wide Web."

Dutch Dresser, now NEIS vice president for Internet services, said, "Before the merger, NEIS had marketed its Internet services to small and medium-sized companies in the Portland area. Now we can

Code officer calls it quits

He will leave the posts Sept. 30, after serving three and a half years in Bethel and two and a half in Newry.

Ostriches rule his roost in Woodstock

By ALISON ALOISIO

Godzilla is the friendly one. High Pockets is shy and high strung.

"They're like day and night -- completely different birds," said Wendall Hall.

Hall is talking about his one-year-old female ostriches.

Known as the birdman to some, Hall lives in Woodstock off Route 26. Passing motorists may have seen some of his other birds -- geese and ducks -- strutting around a pond displaying the sign "Lake Aiyemka" next to Rt. 26.

Hall is a native of the area, but has divided loyalties between Maine and Alaska. He's moved back and forth several times.

The last move back to Maine happened about a year ago. He decided then to invest in some ostriches as a business.

The birds are raised for their meat. "It's good, healthy meat -- no cholesterol," said Hall.

The going price for a breeding pair of ostriches was about $40,000, and Hall had plans to raise young birds to sell as hangers.

He paid $10,000 to a company in Houston, Texas, to ship him ten baby ostriches. He set up a pen in his back yard and went about learning how to raise them.

But what he didn't know was the young African birds are very susceptible to "exotic" American viruses they've never encountered.

Sadly, all but two of them died. Meanwhile, the price for breeding pairs dropped -- from $40,000 to $10,000. The reason, Hall said.

USFS wildlife biologist joins growing number of women on the fire line

By ALISON ALOISIO

Put out a fire so large it creates its own weather.

That was the task West Bethel's LeRoy Rowse and other U.S. Forest Service firefighters faced recently in the Malheur National Forest in Oregon.

Rowse is a wildlife biologist with the White Mountain National Forest. She was part of a forest service crew sent west Aug. 20 to help battle widespread forest fires. She returned on Sept. 9.

"We worked mostly on what was known as the Summit Fire," Rowse said. "It was about 40,000 acres."

They went first to a base camp where 1,500 other firefighters were gathered, including state, private and other Forest Service personnel. From there, they were sent out to "spike camps" near the fire.

"We were pretty high up -- about 6,000 feet -- working along a ridge line. We were trying to hold the fire line along it. At one point the fire blew up (threw) very actively on both sides of the line. The trees would catch, then torch up. You could see the fire running downhill, taking off along the ridge," she said.

While firefighting is always risky, Rowse said her crew was never in a desperate situation. She credits her experienced crew boss, Frank Hagan. "He made sure he understood an area before we went in," she said.

She also worked some night duty, digging fire lines around houses and cabins, and back-burning to take

THANKS FOR HONORING THE TICKET

To the Editor:

Just a quick note to publicly thank The Bethel Citizen for honoring the 1896 Bethel Centennial red ticket entitling the bearer to a one-year subscription to the Bethel News and a free meal. It must have been more than forty years ago that I was given this ticket by an older lady (to date unidentified) who told me that she would not live to benefit, but certainly I would. It has remained one of my most cherished possessions, always kept in my portable writing desk given me by my grandfather and later in a safety deposit box.

We once had an exhibit at the Bethel Historical Society where members and friends were encouraged to bring in a treasured possession for exhibit. This was my entry and I only held onto it to see what the staff at the Bethel office would do when I presented it to them in 1996. I never dreamed you would honor it, but you have and then some. Now it is time I consider donating it to the Society. Its story will also make a good one for the special Bicentennial Committee.

Again, many thanks for this pleasant surprise.

COLLINS IS THE SOLUTION

To the Editor:

The people of Maine are losing a great statesman in Sen. Cohen. Yet it replacing Sen. Cohen is the problem. Susan Collins is the solution.

Susan knows how important good jobs are to the people of Maine. She has spent most of her career working with small businesses, including 12 years as Sen. Cohen's chief adviser on business issues. Susan knows how this work in Washington, so she will be a strong voice for Maine on her first day.

Susan's experience and understanding of the issues are great assets for Maine's next senator to have. Yet it is her independent, common-sense approach to leadership and problem solving that will make Susan a great senator for Maine and the nation.

WORKING FOR OUR LAKES

To the Editor:

A recent Greenwood of Lakes Association (COLA) newsletter told of a man from Ohio who visited his wife's family in Maine for the first time. When he walked into a local lake and could see his feet he said, "you can see down through it."

As president of the Greenwood of Lakes Association, I would like to commend Alison Aloisio for her excellent article on the condition of local lakes (Bethel Citizen Sept. 11, 1996). It may be that the lack of rain during the summer of 1995 and the problem with the dam in Locke Mills gave the water a chance to grow.

Jim Chandler deserves a big thank you for his willingness to share his knowledge and to work to prevent soil erosion into lakes and streams. He also did a terrific job bumping back the roadside spring in Bryant Pond.

The Greenwood of Lakes Association was formed in 1986 with the purpose of working to preserve the clarity of our lakes and ponds. The association is open to all who would like to support this effort. Our projects include lake testing, workshops, and giving out information about protecting the lakes. To join, send $10 for dues to Elsie Andrews, 292 Main Street, Bryant Pond, ME 04219.

We would like to thank the citizens of Greenwood and Woodstock who have helped for the past several years to donate money to the Lakes Association. This money is used to hire biologist Scott Williams to test the lakes in our area. Thanks also to the Citizen for printing our "tips" in your back issue.

VOTE THE BALANCED OPTION

To the Editor:

Today in Maine, as well as in the rest of the country, the cry to be green -- to save the environment -- is the rallying cry. To be green is a concept balanced with both economic and environmental concerns. It is a goal that we should all strive for. The upcoming vote on the Forest Practices Rules is one of the most important questions facing our state.

The Maine Green Party is running for our ballots as question 2A, and to properly address our concerns. By assuming that a "one size fits all" philosophy can be applied to each area of words, they fail miserably to understand their basic claim to improvement in forest practices. By disregarding the dramatic economic consequences that their actions would cause, they further alienate their referendum from the rest of the state. Their plan discriminates against the vast majority of our state, and it will only be applied there. No provision for any compromise or any other measure.

On the other hand, the "Compact for Maine's Forest," to appear on the ballot as question 2B, addresses both the economy and the environment in a manner that provides for the well being of both. Most forest industry workers will remain employed and the mills will stay in operation, providing the tax base and economic stability for the communities and counties where they are located. This sensible approach will be applied equally on a statewide basis, offering an even playing field for all landowners. This compact illustrates what good things negotiation and compromise can accomplish.

A third choice will appear on the ballot, 2C, neither of the above. This question appears due to our Maine election laws, as written a long time ago. In my opinion, this is not a real choice at all, but only represents a wasted vote for those that may be so inclined. Please join with me and thousands of others that will vote a resounding yes on 2B.

Bethel's Goal for 1996

Oxford County United Way

Bethel's Share of County
Goal: $3,500 or 4%

Overall Oxford County
Goal is $77,000.

Local United Way drive is underway

The Bethel area segment of the United Way of Oxford County's annual fund drive started last week and will continue until the end of October.

Campaign personnel hope to obtain $3,500 in pledges for regular supporters and from new donors in the Bethel area. Last year's campaign raised $2,892, so this year's goal represents a 19 percent increase in hoped-for pledges.

Employee giving through payroll deductions plans has traditionally provided United Way with the core of its fundraising appeal. Currently, Sunday River Ski Resort and SAD44 employees support the United Way through this type of giving.

United Way goals for employee giving focus on maximum participation with each participant donating one dollar per week.

This year, donations to the United Way will go to 18 different agencies who provide a variety of charitable human services in Oxford County and the Bethel area. The hallmark of the local United Way's operations is that all donations stay in the county. This year Unity Way member agencies have requested $122,600.

The overall county goal of $77,000, if achieved, would allow supporting nearly half of the requested amount.

Eighty-five cents of every dollar donated goes to charitable services and only 15 cents of each donation is used for administration.

As governmental support of various services for youth, the elderly, family emergencies and mental health programs has dwindled, officials in the agencies providing charitable services look increasingly to the United Way for donations to continue to serve needy people.

Therefore in this year's campaign, more employers with payroll services will be asked to allow employees who want to make donations through payroll deductions to be able to do so through their company's administrative services.

Linda Ray is BAHC interim director

By ALISON ALOISIO

Clinical coordinator Linda Ray has been appointed interim executive director at the Bethel Area Health Center, following the resignation of George Larson.

BAHC board chair Jane Hosterman said the board is not in a hurry to find a permanent replacement, although one is expected eventually.

Larson left two weeks ago to become chief executive officer of a rural hospital in Holyoke, Colo. "George grew up in the West, and he wanted to get back into hospital work," Hosterman said.

Larson had previous experience in hospital administration prior to coming to BAHC, she said.

Ray has worked at the health center for six years, and has a background in nursing and social work. "We have no deadline for hiring a permanent replacement," said Hosterman. "It's a nice feeling to say Linda is there. George believed everybody should have an idea of what their superior does. She's doing a nice job."

BAHC serves a population base of approximately 6,000 people, and has 20 to 25 employees, Hosterman said.

Bethel Town Office

Several local garages accept used but clean motor oil. These garages have waste oil burners that reuse the oil. Gaudreau's Repair and Walker's Repair both replied to my inquiry requesting their permission to publish this in The Citizen. Their doors are open to clean oil donations. Bethel Irving collects motor oil and transports to waste oil burners. Most garages will offer this service to their customers, especially if arrangements are made ahead of time.

Paint is a more complex topic. The composition of paint has changed in response to scientific studies concerning the harmful effects derived from toxic constituents and the adoption of environmental and safety regulations. These changes have resulted in less toxic paint being sold today than in the past. Heavy metal pigments and the gradual shifting from solvent-based to water-based coatings has significantly reduced the toxicity.

There are two major categories of paints sold to households: latex and oil-based paints. Latex paint, which is water-based, accounts for 70 percent of architectural paint used in the United States today. Latex leftovers can be saved for touching up or donated to willing takers. An "empty container" no longer contains any liquid paint product and only may contain a thin dried coating. Concerning waste-based paints, empty containers can be brought to the transfer station.

Oil-based paints present a greater disposal challenge. Ancient cans of paint lurking in the basement probably contain lead or mercury. It is very important to clear out these old paints from homes and hobby corners. Unwanted lead, mercury, oil and solvent based paints are prime candidates for the hazardous collection event. These are not transfer-station items.

Bethel's second Household Hazardous Collection event is on Sept. 28 from 9 to 11 a.m. at the recycling center. Accepting registrations now at the town office.

SAD44 WELLNESS TEAM ACTIVITIES

To the Editor:

The SAD44 Wellness Team would like to take this opportunity to update interested community members on its recent activities and upcoming plans.

After winding up the school year with a very successful bike safety rodeo, five team members attended the 11th Annual Maine Schools Health Promotion conference at Sugarloaf, USA. The conference provided the team with an opportunity to recharge its batteries, share successes, strategies and fellowship with other teams from throughout Maine, and develop an action plan for the coming year.

The recent start of the 1996-97 school year found the Wellness Team busy again, promoting school staff wellness and goodwill. New faculty members arrived at school to find "welcome baskets" filled with classroom supplies, post-it notes, hi-lighters, etc., a live plant and a note of welcome greetings from the team. And all staff members returned to their respective staff rooms to find a basket filled with "stress relievers" which were small toys and gadgets designed to positively channel excess energy and/or anxiety. Also, faculty and staff members are, and will be, receiving recognition by the Wellness Team on such occasions as birthdays, etc. Upcoming activities will include Red Ribbon Week activities throughout the district and communities (Oct. 23-31) and the Great American Smoke Out in November. Plans are being made to hold a staff and/or community Wellness Day and talent show.

The SAD44 Wellness Team is not a stand-alone organization. It regularly collaborates with the Regional Partnership on healthy community activities: Red Ribbon Week, the bike safety rodeo, school staff training, "Building Assets in Youth" workshop for Telstar Middle School staff. Last spring the team, in cooperation with the Regional Partnership, Project ASSIST Team (a local school-community tobacco health issues group) and others, worked with district administration and the school board to change the district's tobacco-use policy to conform to changes in state law, and to offer a smoking cessation course to those found in violation of the policy.

The Wellness Team invites participation by and input from all interested individuals and community groups. It meets regularly, usually in the late afternoon at Telstar High School. For more information on meeting times and dates, contact any of the following team members: Dick Blackman 824-3596, Gail Brooks 392-4381, Kathy Burke 824-2136, Chris Cole 824-2582, JoAnn Crockett 824-2422, Robert Francis 665-2217, Robin Gundersen 824-2185, Elizabeth O'Meara 824-2839, Barb Russell 824-2136, Brian Stowell 836-2415, Linda Stowell 824-2185 or Elissa Thibodeau 392-1181.

Taylor Woods development OK'd

BETHEL--The Planning Board conditionally approved Phase I of the proposed Taylor Woods housing development on the Middle Intervale Road last week. The first phase includes 11 acre-and-one-half house lots covering a total of 16 1/2 acres, according to developer Rick Savage. A second phase would add another 26 lots. The plan also calls for intermingling cross-country trails on the property with those of Carter's Cross Country Ski Center, allowing Carter's two lodges to be connected. The approval for Phase I is conditional on Enhanced-911 property numbering and mapping and payment of the tree growth penalty.

Opera House paving requested

BETHEL--Jack Thompson of the Bethel Opera House Association last week presented a proposal to the Planning Board to pave a 4,000-square-foot area of the property's parking lot. The request was made for the purpose of stabilizing the soil and controlling mud and dust being tracked into the building. Original approval for the opera house project in 1983 was subject to the condition that there be no paving on 90 percent of the total area of the property, not including the building, according to planning assistant Nancy Schlieper. An appeal to the Appeals Board at the time was denied. The Planning Board will visit the site prior to its Sept. 25 meeting.

Mt. Abram lodge approved

GREENWOOD--The Planning Board Monday approved the construction of a new lodge (known as West Side) at Mt. Abram ski area, according to Town Manager Liz Lavolette. The structure will measure 46 by 50 feet. She also said selectmen were expected to take up the renewal of the area's liquor license at their meeting Tuesday evening, and would consider a request to expand it to cover the new lodge.

Haney runs away again

PARIS--A 14-year-old Andover girl who disappeared from her home in December is missing again. Phalan Haney is believed to be somewhere in Maine with her 17-year-old boyfriend. She was reported missing on Sept. 9. In December, Haney and a friend, Angela Smith, 16, went with Lewis Danny Newcomb, 44, of Andover on a cross-country car trip, stopping in San Diego, Calif. A warrant was issued in Maine charging Newcomb with criminal restraint of both Smith and Haney. On Jan. 4 San Diego police officers who were trying to arrest Newcomb shot him in a motel room after he turned his gun on police. Smith and Haney witnessed the shooting. In the current case, Haney and her boyfriend were seen in Temple last week. Detective Jim Miclon of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department asks that anyone with information about Haney call him at 1-(800)-733-1421.

Grimaldi purchase approved

ANDOVER--Sixty voters last week approved buying 36 acres of land for recreational use. An Aug. 13 vote had initially turned down the purchase of the Grimaldi property. But then an anonymous person offered to donate $3,500 to buy it if the town matched the amount, and about 30 people submitted a petition asking the vote be reconsidered. The total cost of the land is $19,000. An additional $12,164 has been set aside in a special account which comes from penalties landowners have paid to withdraw land from the tree-growth tax status, and another $400 has been added since Aug. 13. Selectman Brian Mills said that by the time of the March annual Town Meeting Andover may have to raise $2,000 or less. The vote to approve the purchase was 37-20.

NRA, SAM endorse Barth

BETHEL--Rep. Al Barth (R-Bethel) has received endorsements from the National Rifle Association and the Sportsman's Alliance of Maine for his reelection bid to the Maine House of Representatives. He is serving his third term in the House, and is a member of the Joint Standing Committee on Education and Cultural Affairs and the Taxation Committee. He co-sponsored a bill that limits nuisance actions and noise ordinances relating to sport shooting ranges. The new law prohibits a person from suing a sport shooting range for nuisance unless there has been a substantial change in the use of the range. Barth is a lifelong hunter, fisherman and sportsman.

School dept. looks at privatization

LEWISTON--Public school food service employees from throughout the state came to a School Committee meeting last week to hear a sales pitch on privatization from Marriott International's School Services division. Marriott representative Ron Cervin said the Lewiston nutrition program was run efficiently, but had high costs in its labor contract. He said Marriott could save the system money through higher student participation in the food service, and lower food and labor costs. Cervin said 96 percent of his company's clients would recommend them, and invited board members to call any of them for references. The school committee could enter into a contract that retains all employees at current salary levels, while allowing future employees to come in under Marriott's terms, he said. But he could not say what those salary levels would be. Beverly Bustin, an AFSCME representative currently in contract negotiations for Lewiston's food service employees, said Marriott is willing to "take a bath" just to get its foot in the door in Maine.

SAD17 approves novels

PARIS--The SAD17 School Board gave conditional approval Monday to the continued teaching of the novels "The Catcher in the Rye" and "The Beans of Egypt, Maine" at Oxford Hills High School, provided procedures to inform parents of the use of the books be implemented immediately. The 21-1 vote came after an emotional clash over values and censorship among more than 60 people attending the meeting. It was the first challenge to reading material in the district in 16 years. Oxford parent Gary Frechette had challenged the English Department's teaching of the two books.

Black widow spiders found

PORTSMOUTH--A black widow spider was discovered in a supply area at the Pease Air National Guard Base last week -- the second of the deadly spiders found this summer. Speculation was that it might have been transported with a shipment of material from the South, where black widows are more prevalent. The bite of the black widow is more toxic than that of other spiders, but it does not always mean instantaneous death, said entomologist Stephen Lawton. He also said the spiders are not aggressive, preferring to hide. The first spider was found in a storage area at the base.

Maine foliage reports available

AUGUSTA--The 1996 Fall Foliage Report will be available Sept. 18 through Oct. 16, according to the Maine Department of Conservation. Maine Forest Service Rangers will estimate the color change and the percentage of leaves dropped in seven zones throughout the state each Wednesday morning. The data will be disseminated to media, travel information providers and the public by afternoon. For the first time the report will be available on the Internet, at <http://www.state.me.us/doc/foliage>. For those without Internet access, call MDC at (207)-287-4909.

Vermont foliage season promising

ORANGE, Vt.--Early-turning red maples have appeared in the higher elevations of the Green Mountains, a reminder that the fall foliage season is not far away. "We can expect an exceptionally brilliant fall foliage season due to an excellent growing season and lack of significant insect or disease problems," said Vermont state forester David Paganelli. "When trees are healthy they tend to have bigger leaves, and those leaves tend to stay on the trees a little longer."

From the Bethel Police log:

Numerous incidents on Church Street

At 2 p.m. on Sept. 9 a Church Street resident reported a male subject had been yelling at vehicles and the public as they drove by. Police spoke to him and advised him of the complaint of his foul language, and if it continued he would be summonsed for disorderly conduct.

Tuesday, Sept. 10

At 6:36 p.m. the same Church Street resident reported several subjects had come onto Gould Academy property, using foul language toward students and threatening them. Police spoke with several subjects at the common and asked what had taken place. The subjects said several Gould students had begun yelling at them when they passed by. The subjects then stopped and confronted the students. The subjects were advised they were not allowed on Gould property, and any further complaints of offensive language would result in criminal action.

At 9:50 p.m. the same Church Street resident reported there were possible civil rights violations done to a Gould student earlier in the day. Police spoke with the student, who said the subjects involved made threats and racial slurs to him. A second Gould student described the incident similarly, saying the subjects had instigated a fight with the first student.

At 11:42 p.m. a Chapman Street resident reported she believed someone was attempting to get into her garage. On arrival police spoke with the complainant, who said she could hear someone in the garage. The officer checked the garage and found a skunk. No charges were filed.

Thursday, Sept. 11

At 4:30 p.m. police received a call that several juveniles were damaging the benches on the common. The officer identified the juveniles, but could not see any damage to the bench they were on.

At 6:30 p.m. a Vernon Street resident reported that while traveling on Church Street he had observed a subject throwing rocks at the side of the Nazarene Church. The complainant said he confronted the subject, whose response was profane and abusive. The complainant said he would complete a statement on the incident. At 6:43 p.m. the officer contacted the subject, Ryan Wodka, 19, of Bethel and issued him a uniform traffic ticket for criminal mischief. Wodka stated he had thrown the rock at another subject, not at the church. A report was to be completed for review by the District Attorney's office.

At 9:20 p.m. the subject in the 6:30 incident (Ryan Wodka) said he wanted to file harassment charges against the complainant for verbally abusing him at the Nazarene Church. The officer said police must first issue a warning, and would do so. Police would also complete a report regarding the incident.

Thursday, Sept. 12

At 4:30 p.m. a Paradise Road resident reported verbal harassment from several juveniles, who were identified. There were several other subjects involved, but their identity was not known. No contact was made with them by police.

Saturday, Sept. 14

At 9:22 p.m. the Oxford County Sheriff's Dept. reported a tip that a subject was at a residence on the Grover Hill Road. Police located the residence and the subject, a juvenile. His grandmother asked he be taken to the Police Department. The officer then realized the juvenile had been drinking. He said a woman had given him a beer and was aware of his drinking and that he was smoking cigarettes. He completed a written statement, and was then released to his grandmother. The officer advised the juvenile he would be reported to his juvenile intake worker for his violation. Charges were to be issued against Carol White of Bethel for furnishing alcohol to a minor and furnishing a place for a minor to consume alcohol.

Correction: In the Sept. 4 Citizen Police Log account of a Sept. 1 incident at Sudbury Village, it was stated the subject allegedly smoking marijuana was a male. The Bethel police log did not identify the sex of the subject.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

HEADED TO THE ARABIAN GULF
Airman Mary Newall, 22, of Andover is a member of the U.S. Navy's Fighter Attack Squadron 94. She plays a major role in launching and recovering aircraft from aircraft carriers. Last month she and her squadron participated in a pre-deployment exercise aboard the USS Kitty Hawk. The two-week exercise, held off the coast of southern California, was preparation for a six month overseas deployment to the Arabian Gulf scheduled for October. "The most rewarding aspect of being in a squadron is having my name on an aircraft and seeing it launch off the catapult on the ship," said Newall. "I'm responsible for the safety of the aircraft and the pilot." Newall, a 1992 Telstar High School graduate, is the daughter of Peter and Colleen Farrington. She is shown here on the Kitty Hawk.

NOW IT'S TIME FOR HIS OWN PROJECTS—Norm Putnam, Bethel and Newry's code enforcement officer for the past few years, will step down from the positions Sept. 30. He plans to finish work on his new house, currently under construction, and "go looking for something else to do." Above, Putnam works on the kitchen of his new home.

me two guidelines -- everyone follows the rules, and help when you can. I'm not as helpful as I can be anymore."

His departure leaves officials in both towns wondering how they'll replace him.

"He had a real strong sense of commitment to the town of Bethel," said Henley. "He volunteered for years as a waste water treatment plant committee member, a selectman and then in this part-time job. He tried very hard to help people out. He'll be tough to replace," she said.

Newry Planning Board Chairman Joe Aloisio agreed Putnam will be a tough act to follow.

"I think it will be extremely difficult to replace him. Norm was a valued asset to the board," he said. "His thoroughness in reviewing applications made the board feel comfortable that the applications were complete."

Putnam has mixed feelings about leaving. "I'll miss meeting a lot of people," he said. "The people at both town halls have been very nice. Madeleine has been great to work for."

There have been satisfying aspects of the CEO job, he said. In Newry, that includes helping to update the town's floodplain ordinance, and seeing that the shoreland zoning map was certified.

In Bethel, his regular attention to the automobile junkyard law -- requiring property owners to meet permit requirements for more than two unserviceable motor vehicles, or get rid of them -- has brought results.

"We've increased the number of permits. The town probably looks a little better for my efforts," he said.

Using the everybody-follows-the-rules-but-help-where-you-can approach has worked in other permitting and compliance situations, too, Putnam said.

"If you persist with people long enough, they'll comply. We've never had to take anyone to court," he said.

Putnam feels Bethel's system of permits is necessary, and it should be stronger.

"We should not pass rules to annoy people, but as protection to make sure their construction is sound and safe. It also makes the town aware for tax purposes," he said.

Some area residents and developers have not appreciated Putnam's persistence. Last year developer Rick Savage blasted him publicly, saying Putnam had cited issues with projects unnecessarily.

But Putnam took the criticism in stride, saying it went with the CEO's job.

Savage said Monday that while he and Putnam have had differences, they've always worked them out.

Putnam isn't sure what he'll do come Oct. 1, besides finishing work on his own new house.

"I'll go looking for something else to do, probably in another field," he said. He may do some carpentry or drafting part time. He is also CEO in Greenwood, and said he would probably continue with the job in that town.

Putnam's background is in engineering. He retired from business in 1989.

Does he have any advice for his successor in Bethel and Newry?

"No," said Putnam. "I wish him all the luck in the world."

Ostriches

was more people getting into the business.

Survivors Godzilla and High Pockets (named by his grandchildren) lived on in Hall's baseboard-heated garage for the winter.

"They lived better than most people," he said.

Hall has become attached to them, and thinks of them more as pets than business investments.

Let loose often from their pen, the ostriches "graze" on clover around his 40-acre property, and follow him around like a pair of dogs.

"They're very curious about people," said Hall. "I went away one day, and they heard the neighbors talking. They went over to see what was going on."

The ostriches also love wet weather. "I built them a shelter. I don't know why I did. When it rains, they go right out in it," Hall said. "They love the hose, too. You ever seen a cat when it's wet? That's what they look like."

The birds weigh 250 pounds each. A full-grown bird can reach 400 to 500 pounds.

Godzilla and High Pockets eat about three pounds of grain a day. Hall buys it in quantity and brings it home in the back of his pickup truck.

"They think that truck is their mother. When I drive it down through the field, they follow it," he said.

Hall still hopes he may yet make some money from the ostriches. He plans to get a male for breeding in the spring.

"I'm not going to just give these things away, at least not for a while," he said.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS

Oxford County Republicans met at Rumford Grange on Sept. 10 for their monthly meeting, which was preceded by a ham supper served by the Grange.

Various reports from Victory '96 Committee members were heard. State Committeeman Carl Hansen briefed those present on Paul Young's campaign, which has received a number of important boosts with endorsements from several national groups. Dan Demeritt from Susan Collins' office said the Senate campaign is going very well and she is leading in the polls by eight points.

Oxford County Republican Chairman Stan Howe introduced the new campaign headquarters' coordinator, Daryn Demeritt, who is now actively working full time to set up and run Oxford County's political operations from the headquarters on Route 26 in Oxford. Demeritt asked for everyone's help and cooperation. The telephone number for the headquarters was also announced at the meeting, 539-9600, and volunteers were urged to call with any help that could be provided not only in time but also with equipment.

It was announced that the County Republicans have a booth at the Oxford County Fair, and candidates were urged to spend some time at the booth, introducing themselves to voters. Becky Kendall, state committeewoman, urged those who wished to volunteer for the Fryeburg Fair to contact her at 824-3196 to help with the Republican booth at the fair.

A number of legislators were present and were introduced: State Sen. Norman K. Ferguson Jr. (R-Hanover), Rep. Robert Cameron (R-Rumford), and Rep. Tom Winsor (R-Norway). Candidates Elsie Tracy, running for the House District 69 seat, and Freda Truman, county treasurer, spoke briefly about their campaigns, as did incumbents who are unopposed for re-election: Steve Merrill, county commissioner and Ted Tracy, register of probate.

A brief discussion was held about the recent compact on forest practices enacted by the Legislature with some urging its passage while others thought both it and the Green Party initiated referendum should be defeated.

FAMILY EDUCATION COURSE

A 12-week family education course for those whose loved ones suffer with mental illness is scheduled for Rumford. Parents, spouses, siblings, friends and significant others are all welcome to attend.

The class will cover topics such as: understanding mental illness; coping, listening and communication skills; problem solving; self-care; basic medication information; community resources and supports; and advocacy and fighting stigma.

The teaching curriculum was designed by Dr. Joyce Burland. The course is taught by trained, local parent volunteers and is sponsored by the alliance for the mentally ill of Maine. There is no charge for the course, which begins Thursday, Sept. 26, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. However, space is limited and pre-registration is required. Call the NOVA Adult Ed office at 364-2012 or Diane at 369-0542.

A reminder that all bicentennial items are still on sale at several local merchants as well as the Moses Mason House.

Stay posted for the Woodland Cemetery tour in October and a special slide show of "Lost Bethel" to be presented in November. The latter will be a collection of local history, such as landmarks and buildings, that are no longer here.

The Bicentennial Yearbook is still accepting sponsors. For more information please contact Stanley Howe (824-2291) or Danna Nickerson (824-2049).

The yearbook is sure to be a keepsake and will make a perfect holiday gift, preserving the memories of our 200th birthday celebration in its entirety.

Mundt-Allen Post #81

The regular October meeting date of Mundt-Allen Post and Auxiliary has been changed to Oct. 22. At this time, they will host their annual Girls' and Boys' State Citizen Supper. It will be potluck, followed by the reports of the delegates' experiences at the respective college campus they attended. Department President Heather Bearsley, Second District President Marilyn Taylor and Girls' State Director Nora Thombs are invited guests, as well as parents of the delegates to Girls' and Boys' State.

provide a vast array of Internet services to businesses all over Maine and other parts of New England."

NEIS is expanding into new office space in downtown Portland to accommodate additional employees and systems. "We are very excited about the merger," said Peter Murray, vice president for technology. "NEIS is now more than ever a wholly Maine-owned and operated company dedicated to providing exceptional Internet services to businesses throughout New England."

NEIS is now poised to offer the best custom Internet and Web services available, according to Tim Brooks, vice president for Web service. "We believe that the Internet rapidly is becoming a mission-critical component of the daily operations of many New England businesses, and these companies thus expect high-level products and service from their Internet provider. NEIS now offers a suite of custom products and services to meet those needs," Brooks said.

New England Internet Services is a privately held company located in Portland. Additional information about the firm can be obtained by visiting their Web site: <http://www.neis.net>, or by contacting Rewis at (207) 828-8680.

LOCAL POETS SOCIETY

The Bethel Area Poets Society will hold its first fall monthly Poetry Reading on Thursday, Sept. 26 from 7 to 9 p.m., at the Bethel Bagel and Deli.

Facilitators Dorothy Duddy and Rockie Graham encourage all interested poets and poetry lovers to attend, read their work or the work of others and enjoy an evening of extreme pleasure.

New poets are always welcome. The Poets Society is also meeting weekly and members read and critique each other's work. New members are always welcome. Those interested in more information should call Dorothy at 527-2138 or Rockie at 824-3427.

HARVEST SALE BENEFITS SCHOOL

A Harvest Sale will be held Sept. 21 at the SAD44 bus garage from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. to benefit the Mahoosuc Montessori School. Baked goods, produce, apples and cider will be among the items for sale.

NON-PROFIT GRANTS

The Western Mountains Fund of the Maine Community Foundation has invited non-profit organizations serving the western mountain region of Maine to submit proposals for support of community projects in 1996.

The application deadline for the fourth grant-making cycle of 1996 is Oct. 1 and the Board of Directors will meet on Nov. 19 to make decisions about applications from the October cycle. The first grant-making deadline in 1997 is Jan. 15. MCF seeks proposals for grants in the range of $500 to $5,000 that apply community strengths to help address some of the region's needs.

The Fund advisory board meets regularly to discuss community problems and make recommendations on applications from organizations working to address these issues. Contact Ann Tartre, Program Officer at MCF (667-9735) for more information and application guidelines.

fuel away from an oncoming fire.

One night she helped rescue a Pennsylvania state crewman who had injured his knee.

"They couldn't get a helicopter in at night. They made a stretcher from fir branches, parachute cord and a space blanket. We carried him back to the spike camp in the dark (about a mile's distance)."

On the fourth day out, the base camp had to be evacuated. "The fire was three or four miles away, and could have hit in one or two hours. It created its own weather -- its own thunderstorms -- from the convection. The sky was just black. It was weird. You couldn't tell if it was black from smoke or thunderstorms."

As the fire was brought under control, the crew's duties changed to mop-up. "We had to put out hot spots," she said.

Women firefighters common

Rowse was one of five women in her 20-person crew. She said there are a lot of women firefighters now, especially in the Forest Service.

"It seems to be readily accepted. There was one woman crew boss," she said.

The crew slept in sleeping bags, without tents, in spike camp. Temperatures dropped at night to 25 degrees, and could go up into the 80s and 90s during the day.

Card games provided entertainment for the crew.

"We played about a million games of hearts," Rowse said.

She said one crew member from Washington, D.C., provided plenty of comic relief.

"He liked to get us doing aerobics, to keep us laughing. Other people were looking at us like we were crazy," she said.

They also had a bus driver looking out for their welfare.

"She was like our mother. She made sure we all felt O.K.," Rowse said. "There were a lot of colds, because of smoke, lack of sleep and change of schedule."

Not surprisingly, a bond developed among the crew members.

"You got to know people well. We got tired, there was a lot of smoke, you couldn't take showers. It breaks down barriers," she said. "There was very little griping. People had a great attitude."

strong support of the Bethel Police Department.

The last time foot patrol was used, Tripp said, there were many arrests in the first few weeks -- then things quieted down considerably. "The cruiser practically glows in the dark," he said, "but with foot patrol they never knew where we were."

Tripp said he and reserve officer Stan Moore would even be willing to come in on their own time and patrol on their personal mountain bikes.

Bellman, however, said he was concerned about the safety of officers patrolling on bicycles.

Curfews were the third option discussed Monday.

South Paris and Bridgton have successful curfew programs, Bellman said. In South Paris, "They say it works real well," he said, and doesn't hinder kids who have legitimate reason to be out at night.

Without a curfew, Bellman said, the police have few options for dealing with juveniles out in the middle of the night.

"You can tell them to go home -- maybe they'll go home, maybe they won't, and we end up just chasing them around," Bellman said.

But Henley argued curfew programs were a strain on small police departments, and Brooks thought well-behaved children shouldn't have their freedom restricted because of the bad behavior of a few.

"I can remember the last time we talked about a curfew here," he said, "on the second floor of Odeon Hall years ago."

But the current problem appears to be only with a few ringleaders, Brooks said, so it makes more sense to "deal with the real bad ones, and let the rest of the kids grow up just the way we did."

Help from the weather

Henley and others noted that the coming cold weather would probably put at least a seasonal damper on the problem, giving the town more time to work out a long-term solution.

She suggested attacking the problem with "a concerted community effort between now and snow, and if we don't find anything that seems successful to us then we can spend the winter hammering out whether we want a curfew or not."

Bellman said he would try within the next two weeks to set an informational meeting on the Crime Watch Program. "I'll start working on it tomorrow," he said.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

Displays by SAD44 area employers and mini-workshops on job-seeking skills, including a session on job-hunting on the Internet, will be featured at the upcoming Job Opportunity Day set for Telstar High School in Bethel on Saturday, Sept. 28, from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Event co-chairs Cathy Newell of SAD44 Adult Education and Brian Stowell of the Regional Partnership have announced the following schedule of the morning's events, which are offered free through a cooperation of local organizations, and sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, SAD44 Adult Education and the Regional Partnership.

The Job Opportunity Day will feature table displays and a chance to talk with employers, and complete applications all morning starting at 8:30, as well as registration with the Maine Job Service and a demonstration of their touch-screen computer with job listings throughout the state.

The following employers will be represented at the Job Opportunity Day: Sunday River Ski Resort, Ski Mt. Abram, SAD44, Sunday River Inn and Touring Center, P.H. Chadbourne, Inc., Kendall Dowel, Bethel Inn & Country Club, Bethel Furniture Stock and Bethel Area Health Center. Additional employers are welcome to call 824-2780 to request table space.

At 9 a.m. the following mini-workshops will be presented: Applications and What to Include in a Resume with Marlene Gile of the Rumford office of Workforce Development Center and the Successful Job Interviews with Elaine Doble-Verrill of the Norway office of Workforce Development.

A new opportunity this year will be job-hunting on the Internet. Attendance at this session will be limited, and slots allocated on a first come, first serve basis when registration opens at 8:30 a.m.

Central Maine Technical College at the University of Maine's Rumford/Mexico Center, SAD44 Adult Education, Workforce Development Center and the Department of Human Services (ASPIRE) will have representatives and displays at the Job Opportunity Day.

The Bethel Rotary Club has recruited members to act as greeters as part of their vocational service activities and to assist as needed with job applications. Videos for children of those attending the Job Opportunity Day will be provided so that parents may have time to speak with employers and the Regional Partnership will provide complimentary refreshments.

FRIENDS OF TMS TO MEET

On Thursday, Sept. 19, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., the first monthly meeting of Friends of Telstar Middle School will meet at the Telstar Library. Friends of TMS is a group of parents, teachers, principal and community members who support the Middle School efforts. At the meetings curriculum ideas are shared, class projects are updated and speakers talk about programs that are offered at the Middle School.

The first meeting of the 96/97 school year will feature Richard Blackman, Telstar Middle School principal. His topic will be "kissing frogs." This topic deals with pre- and early-adolescence behaviors.

An open house is scheduled for the sixth-grade parents on Sept. 19, from 6 to 7 p.m., with the Friends of TMS meeting starting directly after in the library.

We had a very successful volunteer meeting this past week. We are ready for action. We will be buying some small items to be used on the playground: toys for the sand boxes, tether balls, rope for jumping rope, etc. An electric stove is being purchased and will be installed in our kitchen.

Our home school counselor, Greg Grigsby, presented the Walk for Me program, to see if our schools wanted to participate. This is a new program, which started last year, and is a way to raise and save money for college.

He will be sending home a letter of explanation to all parents, and to see how many will be interested. If there is a lot of positive response, our group will sponsor an activity right here in town.

Only three major fundraisers are planned for now: The Cherry Dale Farms Sale, the Apple Pie Sale in November and the Walk-a-Thon in January. We will plan a Christmas Bazaar for the children, and possibly one last fundraiser in the spring.

Dates to mark on your calendar: school pictures will be taken on Thursday, Sept. 26, with information coming home before then; Friday, Sept. 27 will be an early release day, students will have lunch at school before leaving at 12:30; the first Parent Teacher Conference will be Friday, Oct. 11. We will also have a book fair during that week and volunteers are needed to help.

We are also looking for volunteers to act as crossing guards every morning from 8:30 to 8:50 a.m. This is an invigorating time of day, particularly in the winter! Please contact Marta Clements, Terry Merrill or Denise Biggers if you would like to help us out.

We are collecting Campbell Soup labels again. Please save them for us, and send them to school with any child.

High school field hockey

Telstar 3, Jay 2

Sept. 11--Sarah Richardson scored two goals and had an assist as Telstar beat Jay. Goalie Jessie Wight made 10 saves. The Rebels were down 1-0 in the first half when Beth Howe scored with an assist from Sarah Richardson. Richardson scored on a corner hit from Michelle McInnis in the second half, and scored the winning goal with 4:58 left in the game. Telstar outshot Jay 31-24, and had strong defensive support from Sarah Seames and Carrie Mason.

J.V. field hockey

Telstar 1, Jay 1

Sept. 11--Telstar's Angie Buker scored the Rebels' only goal three minutes into the game in a tie with Jay. Jay scored in the second half. "Great defense was played by Tabatha Mason, Jen Walker and Gail Aloisio, and great offense by the front line with Erica Gundersen, Heather Best and Mary Ann Lowe," said coach Sheri Head.

High school soccer

Telstar 9, Jay 0

Sept. 14--Tony Buker scored four goals as the Rebels blanked Jay. Wade Luxton had two goals and an assist. Telstar outshot Jay 34-2.

Mountain Valley 4, Telstar 1

Sept. 10--Tony Buker put in the Rebels only goal in a loss to Mountain Valley.

High school golf

Leavitt 4, Telstar 3

Sept. 17--Clint Myers, Neil Thurlow and Chris Orrok were individual winners against their Leavitt opponents, but the Leavitt team prevailed, 195-198. Thurlow was the low medalist with a score of 41.

Architecture lecture at Gould

On Thursday, Sept. 26, Gould Academy will present a program featuring internationally known New England architect Peter Forbes. Forbes, whose architectural design firm has offices in Boston, New York City and Southwest Harbor, Maine, will discuss "An Architectural Response to Changes in Living." His lecture is based on the premise that changes in society's customs, needs, and desires have resulted in the demand for architectural design that more efficiently accommodated the inhabitants of contemporary homes.

According to Forbes, "The replication of house forms from earlier times no longer suits the needs of today's users." Beginning with an analysis of several historical house forms, he will show that these models are inconsistent with the functional demands of our lives today, and will address the question of "What can be done to functionally and spiritually renew the dwelling form while, at the same time, celebrating the traditional ceremonies and icons of family life that are still relevant?"

The program, which is open to the public at no charge, will begin at 7 p.m. in Gould Academy's Bingham Auditorium.

by President Sylvia Wight and devotion read by the hostess, "Different, yet alike." Sec/Treas. Freda Robertson read the notes of the last meeting, brought the finances up to date, and collected dues. There was no correspondence. A discussion took place on a possible Flea Market and Food Sale sometime in October. More on this later. More tickets on the quilt must be sold before the drawing time. Next meeting will be at Sylvia Wight's on Oct. 7 at 12:30 p.m. Cake and coffee were enjoyed after the meeting.

The Newry Mothers Club met Monday, Sept. 9, at the Grange Hall instead of the Town Building because the Newry firemen were having their monthly meeting, which was postponed from the week before, at the Town Building that night. Sub-presidents Karlene Bachelder and Gil Seely opened the meeting with a prayer by Gil. Sec/Treas. Olive Anderson called the roll and read the notes of the last meeting, collected dues, paid bills and showed thank you letters, that Karlene read, from Amanda Sysko and Chris Bowie for the scholarship awards money, and also a card from Amy and Roger Hanscom. A discussion was held regarding a public boiled dinner at the Grange Hall sometime in October, maybe the 19th, $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. The dessert will be pies. The mystery prize was won by Julia Goodwin. Next meeting will be Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Building with a plant sale during the social hour. Refreshment committee will be Olive and Gil. A closing reading was done by Karlene, "How was it in 1941?" The meeting adjourned and coffee and snacks were enjoyed.

Happy birthday to Bea Lowell.

"Here is a warm and friendly wish from the Newry Bowling Gang." Bea and Frank are home again after having spent three months at their home-away-from-home in Sterling, Alaska.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seely, Louise Tetley, Bea Lowell, Olive Anderson and Doris Parent, members of the Newry Bowling Gang, were at Oxford Lanes one day last week. On the overall scores, Gil was high on the singles, beating Karlene by only two pins. She also was high on the triples, and Bea was high on the singles beating Doris by five pins. Karlene, Gil, Doris and Bea each had one spare.

Well, Julia Goodwin (Karlene Bachelder's mother) is back in Unity, after spending a hectic week here in North Newry. She baby-sat for Muffin, the dog, for a couple of days while Ras and Karlene went to Providence, R.I., to visit with their son Brent. I went and kept her company while she was alone. Other days, she went shopping in Rumford with Nancy Wight, took in the Mothers Club meeting, watched the Newry Bowling Gang do their stuff. She even had a chance to go to Berlin on a shopping trip. Karlene and I took her back home and had lunch together with Karlene's twin sisters Helma and Wilma. So long, Julia, see you again sometime later?

The recreation committee will sponsor a hike and picnic on Sunday, Sept. 29 with a rain date of Sunday, Oct. 6. The hike will be up Mt. Will which is a relatively easy hike and is nearby. The trail begins on Rt. 2 and 26 across from the Bethel Transfer Station and ascends to rock ledges with an open view of the Androscoggin Valley. This will be especially pretty with the changing fall colors. Hikers will meet at the trail head at 1 p.m. or may arrive and depart as they please. Wear sturdy shoes and bring a day pack with water, a snack and extra clothes. Car pooling is encouraged to minimize the number of cars parked on Route 2.

The picnic will be at the Parson's Campground on the Androscoggin at 4 p.m. The recreation committee will provide hamburgers and hot dogs. Please bring a salad or dessert to share. There is volleyball at the campground; bring a frisbee or other throw type toys of your own if you'd like. All are welcome and encouraged to attend. If you have any questions on the hike or picnic, call Nancy Babcock at 824-2115 or any recreation committee member.

South Woodstock

Happy birthday to Vera Buck, who celebrated her 90th birthday this week. There was an open house at her daughter's, Erma Lowe, in Oxford. Vera does very well and I see her quite often doing grocery shopping at Shop 'n Save.

Where's Amy? Amy Merrill that is. Amy is home from Mobile, Ala., for a visit with her family, Phil and Terry Merrill. Amy, Joan Poland and I went to lunch at Country Way Restaurant this week. We all ate too much.

Siiri Cressey is attending the Barabazon Modeling classes in Portland. I hear she's enjoying it.

A good crowd gathered here in South Woodstock at Andrew's Corner on Sunday to watch the awesome auto tour. I was so busy watching for the Channel 13 newscast that I didn't hardly see the cars. I saw Kim Block, Dave Santoro and Paul Cousins. There were others there from the station, but I didn't see them. It was real interesting as not much goes through South Woodstock.

There will be a benefit supper for Gordon "Yogi" Dillingham Sept. 21, at 5 p.m. at the South Paris Fire Hall. Yogi had a heart operation and will be unable to work for quite a while. Please attend and give him your support.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Hiram Gatchell recently. Hiram was a good friend of my son Rick and was going to be best man at Rick and Sally's wedding on Aug. 23, but had a heart attack that same week. Sympathy goes out to his friends and family.

Don't forget the Willing Workers' meeting Sept. 25 at 7 p.m. at the Union Church.

By the time you read this, Claribel and Buster Poland will have a new mobile home in Perkins Valley. They have been waiting quite a while for the home to be ready and delivered. I'm sure they'll be happy to get settled in it. I can't wait to go see it.

Larry Billings, Curator of Woodstock Historical Society reports that the Hoyt family watched the museum recently. Helvi Carey and Kathleen Bean have finished redoing the large alumni scrapbook. Much thanks. Exhibits from South Woodstock in the museum are the organ and minister's chairs from the church and the old post office. South Woodstock is well represented in the museum.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that promises and pie crust are made to be broken."

Neighbors along with us enjoyed the parade of antique cars along Route 5 on Saturday. They were on their way from Portland to Sunday River.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nowell of York Beach and his cousin and wife Joe and Kathy from North Berwick were visitors here on Saturday. We enjoyed a luncheon in town and toured the Sunday River area.

Mr. Robert Eichel returned Sunday after spending the past week with his grandchildren in Grapevine, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halle, son Greg, daughter Stephanie and baby Abby of Lisbon Falls visited at the Bancrofts last Sunday, doing some outside work for them. They also brought a birthday cake to celebrate Phyllis' birthday. Other recent callers were Rupert and Ina Grover.

Mrs. Millie Wentzell enjoyed luncheon with the Alphee Tanguays one day this week.

Dale Brown of Westbrook was a recent caller here, looking for the burial place of his grandfather Cleveland Brown, who used to live in Albany.

Upton

by Amy Geiling

Greetings! Autumn is in the air. Early morning clouds and fog settle low in the valley around Umbagog Lake, and the Androscoggin River. From my window, it's lovely to see the huge white cloud formation rise from the water and slowly disappear. Let's not take it for granted - eh!

A trip to Errol this morning (Saturday) offered two baby moose with their mothers and one young bull. It's the beginning of rut. A bear hunter told me, while in the woods, he heard one bull's bellow or mating ritual already.

Leslie Aron and her good friend Netti recently traveled to Kentucky where Leslie's four daughters live. They visited Bybe Pottery. It was Netti's first trip to the state and she said "It made me a believer in Kentucky." She added, "I'm following their basketball and baseball teams now."

Thank you, Nancy at the Iron Horse, for good conversation and relaxation on Saturday afternoon.

CMP crews will be wrapping up early next week, after replacing old lines with new. Thank you, CMP crews for all your support at the store.

Hunting apparel is in and we look forward to a great hunting season.

Gloria Lewis and Loretta Varo of West Bethel are staying tuned to Upton weather reports. Gloria says when she hears of the first snowfall in Upton, she knows it's time to dig out her long johns and shovel. Trivia time: In 1917 on Aug. 14, Ella May Deering married Albert Winslow Enman.

Any Ladies Aid Hunter suppers planned?

Louise and Alan Chapman have had news from both of their daughters this week. Alison and her husband Blaine Dry from Seattle, Wash. are coming for a visit this Friday and staying for the weekend. Also, Sarah Williams has returned from Korea and is now home in North Carolina. Sarah is in the Army.

My great-grandmother Eva and I have been spending time together. She showed me her book on castles which will help me on my report for school.

Also, I recently visited my grandparents, Irene and Sterl, who are home from South Carolina.

I met my new neighbor, Lizzie Rosenberg, on the bus the other day. She has been biking often.

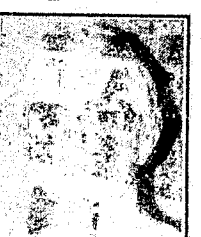

On Sunday, the Silvers went to the Auburn Wal-Mart.

Today my friends Amber and Naomi came to my house to help on our project that's due Sept. 27.

Lori Davis was home this weekend to work.

That's it!

Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met at the Grange Hall on Monday evening. Twelve members were present. Kathleen McAllister was sr. vice president and Sally Sawyer was guide. The charter was draped in memory of Past Dept. President Georgia Rollins, who died last month. Sally Sawyer told of requests she had received from people interested in joining the order. She also told of things they discussed and did at National Convention in Missouri. Next meeting will be Oct.

Bethel Selectmen's Meetings

On weeks in which the Bethel selectmen meet (usually the weeks of the first and third Mondays in the month) the meetings will be televised on Channel IV. The broadcasts will normally be at 7 p.m. on Friday, but schedule modifications will occasionally be necessary, so please check the on-air calendar for up-to-date information.

Broadcast of the selectmen's meeting is a cooperative effort of Channel IV and The Bethel Citizen.

14 with Bessie House and Amanda Jordan on refreshment committee. There will be a silent auction. Tom Watt orders were turned in. Linda Westleigh received the mystery package. Cards were signed for members. Inspection was mentioned and candy for the Halloween bags for the Veterans homes was also discussed. Refreshments were served by Denise Swan and Elena Noyes after the meeting. More pins and books are to be ordered.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met last Thursday at the hall. The dinner was put on by the Star Birthday Club and was very nice. Herschel Abbott spoke about old cars. Thirty-nine people attended. Next meeting is at the Northlands for foliage tour. Each one buys their own meal.

The Woodstock Historical Society thanks the officers, committees and museum guides who gave of their time and efforts to make this summer a productive one for the society. Treasurer Paul Billings recently visited Montpelier, home of General Knox. Thanks to President Mary Billings for her work for the society this year. The society examines all aspects of history and culture in general. It studies the things that have made our civilization endure. The society also encourages everyone to learn about antiques and even collect a few. Curator Larry Billings attended Greenwood Days and enjoyed the celebration.

Did you notice the large number of yard sales around Labor Day? There were plenty of chances to pick up interesting collectibles.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met at The Birches in Gorham, N.H., on Sept. 11 with 75 present.

Prizes were won by Maxine Wright, Eva Perry, Jeannette Kimball and Barbara Brown.

Muriel Faudi entertained with impressions of characters on the British comedies, Mrs. Slocomb and Hyacinth. We look forward to enjoying more of the cast.

The bus for the foliage trip to Cabot, Vt., is filled and there is a waiting list. Helen Saunders has information. Bus leaves the Health Center at 7:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 16, with stops at Lancaster, N.H., dinner in Lincoln, N.H., and a visit to the cheese factory.

Omitted from the August report were cooks Rudy Royer, Roger Twitchell and Jim Hutchins at the picnic.

Over 40 people enjoyed the August trip to the Gray Animal Farm and lunch at Cole Farms.

September birthdays are: Phyllis and William Bancroft, Everett Cole, Leona Flint, Barbara Honkala, Beatrice Lowell, Shirley Lowell, Herbert Lyon, Kay McMillin, Roger Twitchell, Dorothy Thomas and Mary Valentine.

Members needing calls, cards and sympathy are: both Frances Benettes, Camilla Everett and Louise Twitchell. Polly Davis reports that there are 160 members, five of them over 90, including Ethel Ward, who attends regularly.

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 at West Bethel for a boiled dinner at the Grange Hall for $6 per person.

Jim Brown showed slides of Longwood Gardens in Pennsylvania.

RUMFORD POINT CHURCH SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the Rumford Point Congregational Church has been called by the church council for Sunday, Sept. 22.

The purpose of this meeting is to vote on by-law revisions.

A potluck supper will be at 5 p.m. and the business meeting will commence at approximately 6 p.m. All members and friends of the church are urged to attend.

The annual meeting of the church is scheduled for Oct. 27.

Stop Throwing Your Money Out the Window!

Old, worn-out windows are often the chief culprit in increasing your heating and cooling bills and robbing your home of comfort. Replace them and help keep that precious energy where it belongs—in your home!

Our custom-made windows are made with 100% solid vinyl extrusions manufactured by Fibertex, Inc., a subsidiary of Tredegar Industries. Vinyl is the perfect insulator for windows. It has high resistance to the transfer of heat and cold, and is strong, durable and won't chip, flake, rust, rot, blister or peel.

• Save energy dollars year after year • Maintenance free—no painting, rotting, warping or corroding—ever • Every window is custom made to fit your home • Windows provide easy cleaning from inside your home

Obituaries

MAUDE LILLIAN FARRINGTON

Maude Lillian Farrington, 73, of Cumberland Avenue, Portland, died Saturday, Sept. 7, 1996, at Mercy Hospital in Portland.

She was born in Bethel, daughter of Henry and Dorothy Currier Tuttle, and attended schools in Bethel.

Mrs. Farrington was a former communicant of St. Paul's Anglican Church in Portland. She enjoyed cooking and crocheting.

Her husband, Joseph Farrington, died in 1982. Surviving are four daughters, Sandra Dennison of Windham, Dorothy Winslow of Portland, Sherry Wilcox of South Portland and Cathy Lewis of Freeport; five brothers, George of Rumford, Henry of Sanford, Robert of Massachusetts, Irvine of Bryant Pond and James Tuttle of Bethel; three sisters, Pauline Sherman of Parsonsfield, Della Thurber of Portland and Blanche Johnson of Portland; 13 grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

A celebration of her life was held on Wednesday at Jones, Rich and Hutchins Funeral Home in Portland. Burial was in Brooklawn Memorial Park.

MILDRED S. TYLER

Mildred (Swan) Tyler, 91, widow of Elbert Tyler, died early Saturday morning, Sept. 14, 1996, at Ledgeview Nursing Home, where she had been a patient for several years.

Mrs. Tyler was born in Woodstock on Feb. 1, 1905, daughter of the late Charles Z. and Ida S. Swan, and attended the Woodstock schools.

A fancy stitcher, by vocation, she had been employed in that capacity for Knapp Shoe in Brockton, Mass., and later taught classes in ceramics from her home for many years.

She was a member of the Locke Mills Union Church, the Greenwood Historical Society, a life member of the Bryant Pond Order of the Eastern Star, and a former member and past president of Jackson-Silver American Legion Auxiliary No. 68, Locke Mills.

Survivors include a daughter, Joyce C. Hathaway of South Woodstock; two sons, Phillip H. Cummings of Locke Mills and Herman H. Cummings Jr. of Bethel; and many grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, in April of 1995, and two sons, Theodore G. and Larry S. Cummings.

At Mrs. Tyler's request there were no calling hours or funeral services. Interment was in Hunt's Corner Cemetery, Albany.

CHARLOTTE A. LITTLEHALE

Charlotte A. Littlehale, 62, of Littlehale Road, West Paris, died early Sunday morning, Sept. 15, 1996, at her home.

She was born May 9, 1934, in Hampton, daughter of Maude and Alton Leach. She was married in September 1954 to Harrison Littlehale and moved from Providence, R.I., to Maine to help run the family farm where they made dairy butter for many years.

She was an active member in both the West Paris Baptist and the North Paris Federated churches, playing piano and organ and organizing events and music.

She is survived by five sons, David of Rehoboth, Mass., James of New Jersey, Paul of Texas, Daniel and Jason, both of West Paris; three daughters, Kathryn Parsons of Norway, Elisabeth Meyers of Connecticut, Rachel Littlehale of West Paris; two brothers, Arnold Leach of West Paris and Raymond Leach of Camden; one sister, Pearl Hodgins of Holden; and 11 grandchildren.

At Mrs. Littlehale's request there was no funeral service. Donations in her memory may be made to: West Paris Baptist Church, or Tri-Town Rescue, P.O. Box 275, West Paris, ME 04289.

RICHARD L. PERHAM

Richard L. Perham, 70, of Park Street, West Paris, died suddenly Monday, Sept. 16, 1996.

He was born in Lewiston on March 23, 1926, son of the late Ronald and Dorothy (Wardwell) Perham. He attended the Groveton, N.H., public schools and graduated from Groveton High School in 1943.

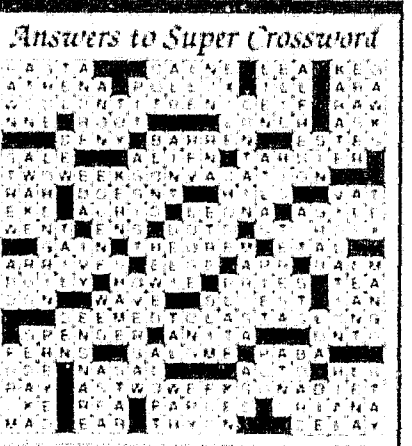

A member of the armed forces during World War II, Mr. Perham matriculated and graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1948 with a B.S. degree in chemistry. A chemist by profession, he was associated with the E.I. DuPont Corp., of Wilmington, Del., as a distribution specialist, transferring to Tokyo, Japan, on to Corpus Christi, Texas, and returning to Wilmington, where he retired in 1982 after 35 years with DuPont.

An accomplished musician, Mr. Perham was renowned throughout New England for his pipe organ ability, and his home in West Paris featured one of the world's finest pipe organs. He was to have performed, in concert, on Sunday, Sept. 22, at the West Paris Congregational Church in Bethel.

He was a member and past president of the Pine Tree Chapter of the American Theater Organ Society and attended Our Lady of the Snow's Church, Bethel. For many years, he composed the monthly newsletter of the West Paris Universalist Church and did volunteer work in the Agnes Gray Elementary School, West Paris, and Telstar High School, Bethel, assisting in their computer programs.

Mr. Perham is survived by two sisters, Mary Brown (Mrs. John) and Marcia Snell (Mrs. Stanley), both of Lisbon, N.H.; a brother, David W. Perham of West Palm Beach, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews.

Memorial services will be held Saturday, Sept. 21, at Our Lady of the Snow's, Bethel. Friends who wish may make memorial donations in his memory to: Tri-Town Rescue, P.O. Box 275, West Paris, ME 04289.

Mr. & Mrs. Darren Morse

The Locke Mills Union Church was the setting for the July 20 wedding of Corinna Grover and Darren Morse. The Rev. Debra Jenks performed the ceremony.

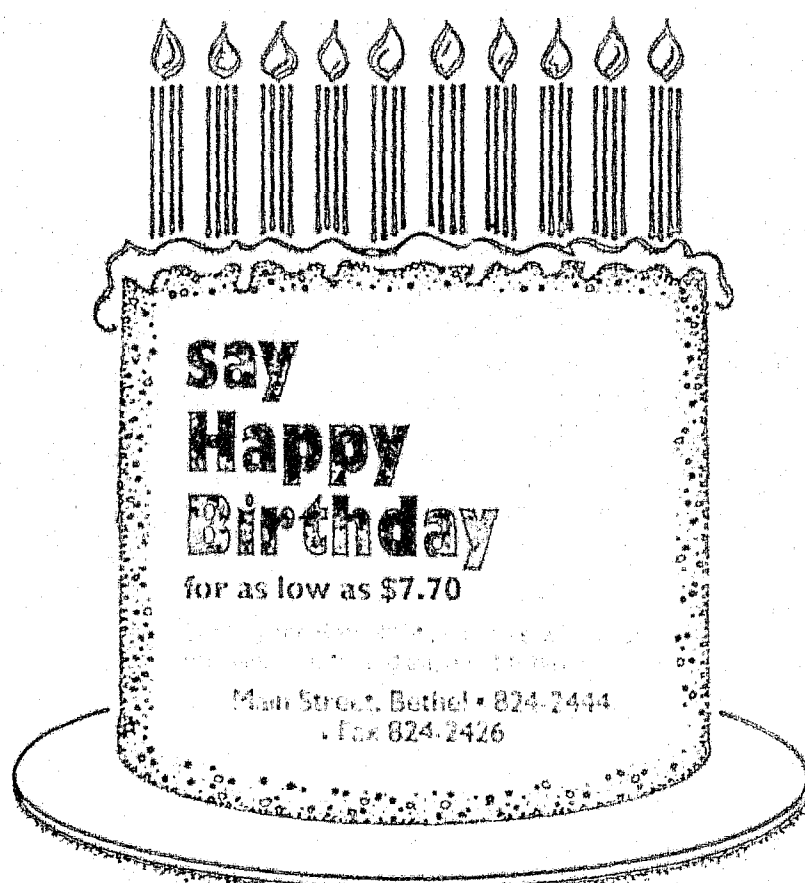

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grover of Westbrook. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morse of Westbrook.

The bride, wearing a white satin gown, was escorted to the altar by her father, Glenn Grover, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Kelly Morse, brother of the groom, served as best man, and Ryan Grover, nephew of the bride, was the usher.

The bride is a graduate of Oxford Hills High School and is currently employed by Norway Savings Bank in Norway.

The groom is a graduate of Telstar High School and is currently employed by Robert T. Fournier, Inc. of Bethel.

A reception followed at the Norway Legion Hall and after a short trip to Portland and Freeport, the couple will reside in Harrison.
